OH, HAPPY, HAPPY DAY!

Top "brass" of B.C. Social Credit party were all smiles Saturday as recipients of toy musical instruments, including fiddle for Premier Bennett. In background can be seen Education Minister Peterson; behind premier is Attorney-General Bonner, Provincial Secretary Black, Social Credit president Noel Murphy, at party luncheon in Kelowna.

Strike Talks Resume

New negotiations were due to begin in Vancouver today in an effort to end the 10-day-old strike of B.C.'s fishermen.

Officials of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union were to meet representatives of B.C. Fisheries Association. Association president James Sinclair said he will also meet spokesmen of the Native Brotherhood of B.C., representing Indian fishermen.

The strike idled 5,500 salmon net fishermen and 4,000 shoreworkers and tendermen.

SUMMIT MEET

Meanwhile, call-by Sinclair Friday for a "summit" meeting between the heads of the three groups seems headed for failure.

The suggestion was based on what Sinclair termed a "friendly attitude" shown by UFAWU president Steve Stavens at the end of discussions last week.

But today Stavens issued a statement in which he said any bargaining would have to be done by the union's strike committee representing the membership, not by three men.

Stavens said Sinclair's call for a summit meeting of the three presidents only was a gross insult to the intelligence of the membership.

BEHIND BACKS

"I can assure him," Stavens said, "the union membership did not elect me president of the UFAWU on the basis of going behind their backs and selling them out."

Earlier, Robert Clifton, president of the Brotherhood, said "We should pay no attention to James Sinclair's barking."

"His suggestion (for a summit meeting of the three group heads) is an insult."

Meanwhile, the strike of 26,600 B.C. coast woodworkers became four weeks old today, with no sign of a break in the stand-off attitude of both sides.

PRAYER FOR TODAY
Give me, O heavenly Father, a clean mind and a pure heart, that I may walk worthily in Thy sight. Help me to make my life a blessing to others. Let me never become weary in well-doing. Guide me so to live that at the close of each day I may feel it was well spent for Thee; in Jesus' name. Amen.

Poles Go Overboard For Nixon

WARSAW (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon was enthusiastically acclaimed today with cries of "live 100 years" by at least 5,000 people at Poland's Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

One man broke through police lines to give the American visitor a bear hug that almost swept him off his feet.

The crowd was small in comparison to the 250,000 Poles who greeted Nixon on his arrival Sunday. But it outdid even that great throng in vociferousness and enthusiasm.

After placing a wreath of pink roses on the memorial tomb and reviewing a guard of honor, Nixon suddenly moved toward the thousands of spectators applauding and cheering him. As the crowd gave cries of "Niec zycie," or "long life," one man broke through crying "Nixon."

CLASPED HIM

He bore down and clasped Nixon around his middle, almost weeping. Police and Nixon's aides went quickly to his side and people in the crowd set up the chant "stolat," meaning "may you live 100 years."

Grinning, Nixon and his procession went off to the government offices for calls on Communist Party Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka, Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz and Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki.

The reception Sunday was the most rousing Nixon had received—on all his foreign travels until then. For nearly 15 miles crowds cheered the delighted vice-president and showered him with flowers after he arrived by plane from Moscow.

Mrs. Nixon shared the affection, too. Workers in blue overalls bowed and kissed her hands when she visited a nursery school.

However, the press and radio of nations in the Soviet bloc blacked out reports of the enthusiastic Polish welcome.

Britons Fretting Over Tired Queen

(Times News Services)

London — British newspapers fretted today over the burden placed on the Queen during her Canadian tour and put forth proposals to make future Commonwealth visits less strenuous.

The Daily Herald's front page was dominated by a huge picture of a tired-looking Queen taken as she returned home Sunday.

"Never again," declared a steamer headline over the picture and a front-page editorial which asserted:

"Nobody — Queen or commoner — should have to endure such an ordeal."

"Such whistle-stop tours must never be allowed again," the paper said, adding that during the 45-day trip she had shaken 8,000 hands, visited 136 places, made 50 speeches and two television broadcasts.

If she is to play her modern role as Queen of the Commonwealth, she should spend at least three months in each country she visits. That will give her time to lead a more normal life abroad."

Another London newspaper, the News Chronicle, reported today that the Queen will undergo a medical examination as the result of her 45-day, 15,000-mile Canadian tour.

The paper said Sir John Weitz, one of the Queen's personal physicians, cancelled a vacation in Scotland to see her today.

The examination will determine whether the Queen takes a rest or goes ahead with her full schedule of public appearances in the next few weeks.

First reaction in Congress to the forthcoming visits was favorable, though not unanimously so.

Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, said the talks, if successful, could "enshrine the president as the boldest and most determined peacemaker in many generations."

Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, said he had no doubt Eisenhower's decision was prompted by "good and sufficient reasons." Mansfield said there should be "no petty, partisan quibbling" and that he himself would give the president's decision full support.

But Senator Homer E. Capehart, Republican of Indiana, protested that "it looks like we're again being taken in by the Russians."

Khrushchev is expected to visit Washington for two or three days to engage in, as the announcement put it, informal talks with the president.

tical gathering. Several hundred Social Credit Association members were at hand, but less than 200 appeared at the noon rally in the city park. And though about 600 attended the formal luncheon, most of them appeared to be townsfolk.

GARDEN PARTY

The garden party at the home of Premier and Mrs. Bennett was crowded in the shady spots but barren of people on the lawn's sunny spots. Perhaps 800 attended.

The people who turned out for the bonfire-burning and fireworks were there for the free show. They got it, with a minimum of political overtones. Premier Bennett told them, "This is no time for speeches, but a time for fun."

The local press took over the task of explaining what it was all about. A 16-page special section complete with graphic pictures and features on every phase of government activities was a bonus to all readers. It looked, someone conjectured, "as if the premier had written it himself."

The main story on the front page was headlined "Bennett announces ambitious program" and repeated the program of future expansion which the premier had outlined to the party convention at Vancouver last fall.

MONEY TO SPEND

Now free of direct debt, according to the premier, the government will have $25,000,000 additional money each year to expand services to the people. These include new assistance to the elderly, establishment of hospitals for chronic cases under B.C. Hospital Insurance, reduced municipal taxes, an increase in the $28 homeowners' grant, new parks and $1,000,000,000 for new roads within the next 10 years, the premier said.

FREEDOMITES LAUGH AND WEEP

PRAYERS AND NUDE WOMEN GREET CHILDREN'S RETURN

By STEPHEN SCOTT

KRESTOVA, B.C. (CP) — Amid tears, laughter, dust, heat, prayers, nudity and confusion, 74 children left the care of the British Columbia government Sunday and became the responsibility of their parents.

It was a case of orderly confusion from the minute the children left New Denver, B.C., 65 miles west of Nelson, until most of them arrived at this capital of the 3,000-member radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect on a hot, barren plateau in the mountains 50 miles away.

There were prayers and welcoming speeches here and at nearby Crescent Valley, where the children got off buses.

AT REGULAR SCHOOLS

The children had been taken away because their parents had refused to send them to school. They had attended regular schools in New Denver and lived under government supervision. The government had spent $100 a month each to feed and clothe them.

About 65 of the 74 children who left New Denver in two yellow school buses and two cars were brought here for welcoming ceremonies that coincided with a religious festival.

Two other children left Saturday and one was to remain there until sent to foster parents in Saskatchewan at her own request.

The children were herded together in a dusty square in the centre of this community with its unpainted, wood-and-log, two and three-room shacks. They heard and participated in prayers and hymns.

MANY HUMILIATED

Many were obviously humiliated at the sight of six nude women who had shown their pleasure by disrobing. Before they had a tearful reunion with parents some had seen for only short periods every two weeks for up to five years. "My son, my son," cried a weeping mother as she clutched her 12-year-old.

The parents had shown no emotion Friday when a magistrate in Nelson said the children would be returned to them on the understanding they go to the schools nearest their homes until they reach the age of 15. Sunday the same parents wept openly and repeatedly hugged their children.

They were bitter words also. "Why weren't you here six years ago when they took the children off to prison," shouted one angry father at a photographer.

Mrs. Nasha Barisoff, member of the council of women which governs the sect, said she was sick when she saw her son Billie, who was taken to New Denver 4½ years ago.

LACKED CLOTHES

"He did not even have clothes to come home in," she said. "He had to borrow some from another boy."

But Tim Jmaeff, a Freedomite-choir leader who acted as spokesman, said: "It is not a matter of what happened in New Denver. It is a matter of freedom. Children were taken away from their parents."

The nude women came and stood before the children. Then, one by one, they moved among them, kissing some. Several boys were almost crying. One never took his eyes off the ground.

"You must not misunderstand the disrobing," said Jmaeff. "Disrobing is a sign of emotion. Some of our people in times of happiness or distress take off their clothes."

An Admirable Choice

THE APPOINTMENT OF Major-General George P. Vanier, CMG, DSO, as the Queen's representative in Canada is an admirable one and will be approved throughout the country. As a soldier, diplomat and good Canadian, General Vanier has had an enviable record. It is a tribute to his services and a credit to Canada that he should crown his career by assuming the office of Governor-General next September 15.

The new appointee will carry on the excellent course set by the present Governor-General, the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey. As the first Canadian to be chosen for the post, Mr. Massey proved to be one of the most popular and valuable incumbents in history.

Although General Vanier was seriously wounded in the First Great War, his subsequent activities in many fields have not been curbed. His roots go deep into our history, and as a Canadian of French descent he can do much to unify still further the two major races of this nation.

The new Governor-General will take his wife with him to Rideau Hall—a gracious chateau who has shared many of the adventures of his career. Mrs. Vanier was one of the first to begin the rehabilitation of war prisoners in Paris after the end of the German occupation. As a lady of talent and human sympathies she will add a welcome note to official life in the national capital.

As the Prime Minister has taken pains to make clear, General Vanier's appointment is not to be construed as setting precedent for future appointments—these will not be confined to Canadians but will, as in the past, include outstanding members of the Commonwealth. The new announcement, however, will have wide approval. Canadians will feel that a better choice at this time could not have been made.

With Memories of Affection

THE QUEEN AND PRINCE Philip are back in London once more after one of the most extensive and gruelling tours attempted by royalty. In the past 45 days many thousands of Canadians, in cities, towns and villages, have been able to view the monarch and perhaps enjoy even closer contact with her. Few could fail to respond to the warmth and graciousness of her presence; none could fail to recognize that here was a conscientious servant of the people giving selfless devotion to her job.

That job is not an enviable one. It has on occasion been made even less easy by unwarranted criticism and peephole journalism. Few could live in the spotlight as does Queen Elizabeth, where every cough and eye-blink is recorded, and emerge with the universal public respect and affection which she enjoys, not only in her own domains, but abroad.

There is some opinion that future royal tours should be more frequent but more abbreviated. Such an arrangement might well be for the best. Certainly it should prove less wearing on the visitors.

But regardless of future possibilities, Canadians remain grateful for the past, happy that they have had an opportunity to play host to Her Majesty and Prince Philip, and hopeful that despite recollections of the ordeal of the journey the royal pair will retain memories of the sincere affection with which they were greeted.

The Poor Farmer

AFTER A LONG STUDY OF Canada's agricultural problem the Senate committee on Land Utilization finds that "farming is no longer a way of life but a business." Therefore, it says, a bold new approach must be made to the problem by the removal of farmers from marginal, non-productive land. No direct pressure on these farmers is proposed, but they should be encouraged to find other occupations.

Up to now Canada, and many other nations, have followed the opposite policy of keeping people on the land whether they can make a good living or not, and subsidizing them in one way or another out of the public purse. The results of this futile attempt are outlined by the Senate committee in some stark figures.

In 1956 a census of agriculture showed that there were 120,242 Canadian farms, out of a national total of 375,015, which gave their owners an income of less than $1000 a year. If such farming is a way of life it is a poor way indeed. As the committee says of such rural poverty:

"Persistence of depressed income conditions on farms which have inadequate income levels leads to inertia, apathy and immobility of farm people and a lack of enterprise and hope. Wherever there is a fairly large concentration of low-income farms other economic and social problems develop. The area frequently takes on characteristics of a slum. The services of the community reflect the situation. School and church facilities are often poor, community life generally suffers and roads and other services are neglected or lacking."

But national policy, if it can be called a policy, is designed to keep people on inferior land even if they cannot make a decent living. Guaranteed floor prices and other state interventions maintain this unfortunate class of farmers on a kind of subsistence level while sometimes enriching big, efficient farmers who really require no aid from the state. And of course all these measures raise the cost of food to the consumer, whether it be paid in prices or taxes.

The Senate committee is sympathetic to the farmer who is poor through no fault of his own and cannot be "anything else" if his farm is uneconomic. It proposes, therefore, that the state should assist such farmers, through vocational education and resettlement schemes, to find new employment.

They should be helped to move to better land or to train themselves for urban work. As the non-economic farms were turned back to grazing lands or forests our food would come from the efficient farms which are not dependent, or are less dependent, on state assistance.

All this would only speed up a process already under way. The nation's population is growing rapidly but the farm population is falling, simply because fewer men, using more machines, can produce all the food we need. With a relatively small farm population a larger nation is eating better than ever. But the marginal farms give their owners no share of a rising standard of living.

The Senate committee (not being concerned with local farm votes) faces this situation bluntly and urges the Government to face it also. Undoubtedly these findings will have a powerful effect on future farm policy under any government.

THE FINAL IRONY OF LAST week's celebration at Kelowna probably was not noted by most of the participants.

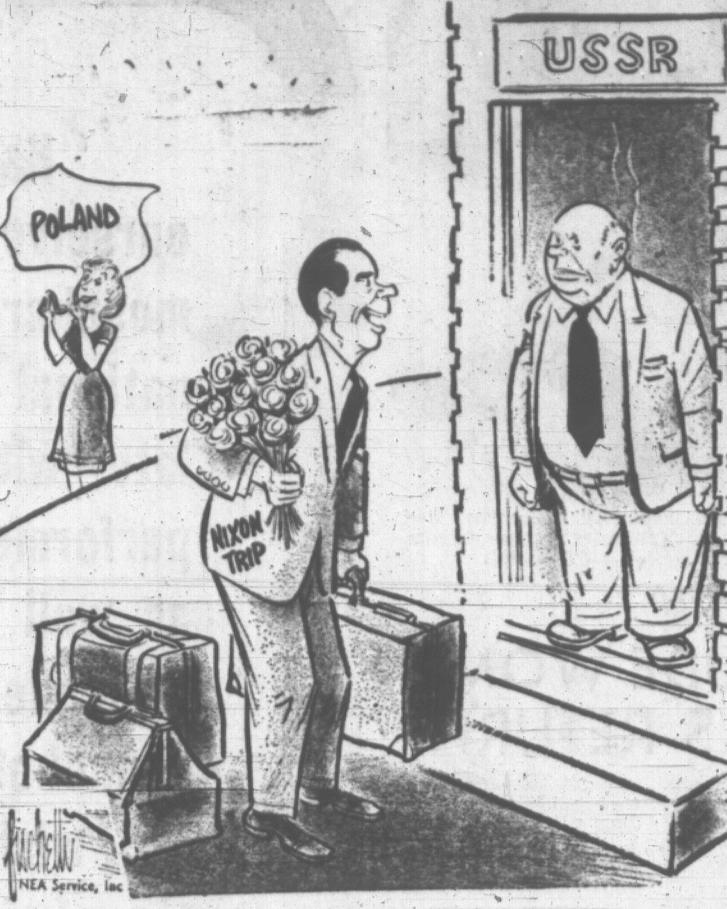

Before he burned his bonds on Okanagan Lake Premier Bennett was busily mending his political fences in the north and there he made an extraordinary announcement. The national Governments of Canada and the United States, he said, were in deep financial difficulty because, unlike the thrifty Government of British Columbia, they had made no attempt to pay off their debts. If they had only followed his example, Mr. Bennett indicated, Canada and the United States would not have suffered from inflation and other familiar evils. Apparently what North America needs at this point is a bigger and better bond fire. All of which would be a good argument if it only happened to be true. Unfortunately it is not true. For at the very moment when he denounces the two national Governments for increasing debt, Mr. Bennett is increasing his own at a proportionately faster rate while disguising it under the polite fiction of "contingent liabilities."

However it may be described in his ledgers, this indirect debt has precisely the same effects which he condemns in the case of the Canadian and American treasuries.

There is much to criticize in the fiscal policies of Ottawa and Washington but there is some comfort in the fact that they are not as reckless as Victoria, either with their finances or with the truth.

A CURE FOR THE CURES?

By B. A. TOBIN

Our Own Worst Enemies

WHEN man embarked on the use of complicated chemicals in combating disease he set up a few problems he hadn't expected. Nuclear energy burst on us first in the form of a deadly bomb, so we were accustomed right from the start to think of the atom as an enemy, but one which might be harnessed to our use. Like fire, it had to be watched. But the wonder drugs were introduced as friends and life-savers. It was a shock to find that they also carried danger for mankind. One of medicine's big problems today is how to combat the direct and indirect effects of the chemical drugs, while still using them to the future.

Occasional outbreaks of serious staphylococcus infections in hospitals and elsewhere remind us that not all germs and viruses are susceptible to the new treatments. Not only are some completely resistant, but a new toughness is being observed in other germs which makes them harder to kill. Obviously a stern form of "survival of the fittest" is in process. Here and there an organism with some freak resistance to the drug survives to procreate. Its offspring along the immunity and soon a large population of drug-resistant germs has grown up.

Nowadays we deal in forces which can destroy the world in one big blast, in chemical or germicidal or radioactive effects which could wipe out all humanity in a fairly short time, in sweeping ventures into space whose end man cannot foresee but which could well result in making humanity obsolete.

In a dozen ways we are interfering with the established balance of nature, and finding still worse problems to solve as a result. The orchardists who wiped out the robins and then suffered an insect plague were only toying with the fringes of the thing.

Cumulative Effect

A better, stronger drug is produced to meet this situation. But the whole sequence may begin again. Persons hit by the tougher strains of infection are, of course, hit harder than before.

The big question is: are we filling the world with more dangerous, more tenacious germs which eventually may prove too much for us? Will we eventually have to help to evolve a Frankenstein monster virus which is unkillable, and which will then turn upon us and destroy us?

Naturally, having set out on the chemical warfare trail, there is no turning back. We must go on to bigger and better drugs to defeat bigger and better germs. Who comes out on top in this series?

But another problem facing the experts is the fact that human beings increasingly are becoming intolerant of some of the new drugs. Penicillin, for instance, has saved many lives and cured many ailments. But more and more patients turn up who cannot stand penicillin, and some who could tolerate it at first later become sensitive to it.

They should be helped to move to better land or to train themselves for urban work. As the non-economic farms were turned back to grazing lands or forests our food would come from the efficient farms which are not dependent, or are less dependent, on state assistance.

All this would only speed up a process already under way. The nation's population is growing rapidly but the farm population is falling, simply because fewer men, using more machines, can produce all the food we need. With a relatively small farm population a larger nation is eating better than ever. But the marginal farms give their owners no share of a rising standard of living.

The Senate committee (not being concerned with local farm votes) faces this situation bluntly and urges the Government to face it also. Undoubtedly these findings will have a powerful effect on future farm policy under any government.

Phantasmagoria

GLORIA had a dream, and in her dream she was walking through a large department store.

There were flags all over the place, and a general air of jubilation.

"What's going on?" Gloria asked a woman in Hosiery.

"It's a new toilet tissue," said the woman. "With Tear-Soft, No-Pull Action. They're featuring it on the Fourth Floor today. An introductory offer. Two free rolls to every customer who buys a Patio Pop-Up Chair. Just follow the Golden Arrows."

"We don't need any at the moment, and we haven't a patio," Gloria said. "I'm really looking for Men's Shoes. They used to be here, didn't they?"

The woman nodded briefly. "That was last week. This week they're up on Third. Next to Ladies' Lingerie."

"But Ladies' Lingerie used to be on the Ground Floor," Gloria said.

"Did it?" The woman looked bored. "The way they change departments about round here, I can't keep track of them myself. I think customers are getting sick of it. But they claim it helps Impulse-Buying."

Gloria had an impulse to stop shopping and leave the store, but she needed soapflakes so she went to hunt for the brand she always bought. The soapflakes weren't in their usual place. Instead, a plump man in overalls was busily painting a new partition.

"Washkleen Soapflakes?" Gloria asked. He waved a helpful hand. "Over by Skin Diving. Right next to Cold Meats. There's pearls in them this week."

"Pearls?" said Gloria. "You betcha life. Pearl Necklace. Simulated Pearls. The Real McCoy. All the way from Fifth Avenue."

"I don't want pearls," said Gloria. "Not soapflakes ones."

The man seemed startled. "Then you'll have to change your brand lady. All the Washkleen flakes have pearls this week. Glamor, you know. You don't go for glamor?"

Gloria shook her head. "No, I just want soapflakes. A full package of good soapflakes without any chinaware, towels, toothbrushes, hairbrushes, or free trips to Hawaii."

The man whistled his shock and dismay. "Jeez," he said. "They don't sell soapflakes that way, any more."

Then, in her dream, Gloria wandered on through the store until it was time to meet her husband, Ben, at the parking lot.

"How'd you get on?" he asked.

"Toothpaste," said Gloria. "Toothpaste that has a pickle-fork tied on to it with miles and miles of strong Scotch tape."

"We have a pickle-fork," said Ben. "I know," said Gloria. "But it was that or the free gift of a vegetable knife, and I bought a vegetable knife last week."

"What else did you buy?"

"A tin of talcum powder that's half the normal size but cost the normal price of $1.25 because it was a free bonus with a squeeze-bottle of a deodorant that I didn't want. But I couldn't get the powder without the deodorant, though it's the kind I've used for twenty years."

"A nightmare, isn't it?" said Ben.

"I hope so," Gloria said. "It'd drive me nuts if it happened to be true."

Women Pilot Canadians

LONDON—Bumped into a woman acquaintance whom I hadn't seen for some time, and knowing her to be a working girl, I asked her what she was up to these days.

"I'm a pilot," she said.

I was about to ask her how she could have qualified to fly a plane so quickly, when she added: "A car pilot, that is."

I had never heard of car pilots, so she put me in the picture.

It's part of a special service laid on for tourists and it is mostly Americans and Canadians who take advantage of it.

Aware that driving a car in London is tricky enough for Londoners, let alone visitors brought up on driving on the right, the Daimler Hire Company (interesting point: they haven't a single Daimler on their books) provides pilots for nervous drivers.

For an extra charge of $2.80, the pilot picks up the visitor at his hotel, conveys him through the London traffic and then when out in the countryside on the highway on which he wants to start his motor tour of the country overnight.

RUSS TO SEE U.S. PAPERS

MOSCOW (UPI) — Harold McClellan, manager of the U.S. exhibition here has placed a rush order for sample copies of about 25 U.S. newspapers—apparently because those already on-hand are considered "unsuitable" by Soviet officials.

An exhibition official said newspapers sent from the U.S. probably will be carefully screened to make sure they contain nothing that might be offensive to Russian leaders.

Nevertheless, choose a day when the heat does not sizzle around the ears, for rose scratches can raise human body temperatures by several degrees it seems.

A pair of leather, or at least thorn-proof, gloves are practically an essential for all but the horniest handed gardeners, and a rather thick cotton shirt with long sleeves is an asset. Now you see why I advise choosing a cool day!

Labor Party
Second to Join
Nfld. Election

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Two new political parties are challenging the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives in the Newfoundland provincial election.

The latest entrant is the Newfoundland Democratic Party. Its formation was announced Sunday night by Larry Daley, president of the Newfoundland Federation of Labor. He said the labor-sponsored party hopes to run candidates for 25 of the 36 legislative seats at stake in the Aug. 20 voting.

The other new group is the United Newfoundland party, formed two weeks ago by two House members who bolted Conservative ranks.

Mr. Daley's announcement followed a weekend meeting by labor leaders here. It ended speculation that the bulk of organized labor, bitter about Liberal Premier Smallwood's intervention in the loggers' strike last spring, might throw its support behind the Conservatives.

RESTORE DEMOCRACY

The aim of the new Democratic Party is "the restoration of democracy in Newfoundland," Mr. Daley said. He described the party as "endorsed by labor," although not all its candidates would be labor men.

With nomination day only a week away, all parties are expected to start active campaigning this week. Only the Liberals have announced a complete slate of nominees.

The Conservatives, their House strength reduced to two by the defection of the United Newfoundland party organizers, have officially announced only 12 candidates.

The United Newfoundland party has candidates in four St. John's ridings.

YOUTH FESTIVAL ENDS IN FIGHTS

Reds Beat Up 9 Americans

VIENNA (Reuters) — Four American girls and five American men were beaten up by Communists at the World Youth Festival here, American sources said.

The incident occurred during a mass march winding up the first seven friction-scarred days of the Communist-sponsored 10-day festival.

Three British delegates claimed they were involved in ights with Communists. The three, two of whom later decided to return to Britain, said "there is no freedom of the press and no freedom of exchange of information."

The march—celebrating the festival slogan of "peace and friendship"—was observed in near silence by Viennese.

7 'MOM' WHYTE BARRED FROM 'FAMILY'

Parents Plan Protest

TORONTO (UPI) — Parents of children removed from the boarding home of Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte planned a meeting today to protest the health department's action and to demand permission to see their youngsters at once.

The meeting was called by Mrs. Whyte who left her empty Whytehaven farm home near Bowmanville, Ont., Sunday night, 48 hours after health officials removed 107 children from the home.

The children were whisked from the boarding farm Friday night after health officials said the home was found understaffed, overcrowded and unsanitary.

CHILDREN INCOMMUNICADO

William Bury, provincial director of child welfare, said Mrs. Whyte as well as the parents would be barred from seeing the children for the time being.

"We will not allow her in," said Bury after he heard Mrs. Whyte was on her way here to take a first-hand look at some 20 children taken to a Toronto home.

Mrs. Whyte said she heard the children were "living in appalling conditions."

Parents, Bury said, will be added to whether their children could be seen in the care of the provincial authorities but will not be told where they are staying.

They are scheduled to appear in court.

"It's in the interest of the children and the parents," he said.

Bury said parents could see their children in about 10 days time when, by law, they are scheduled to appear in court.

Patti's Triple Spoiled By Val

Val Williamson foiled 'em all.

The Eureka, Calif., player, overlooked by the B.C. lawn tennis tournament's seeding committee, provided the major upset of the week-long championships Saturday when she upset top-ranked Patti Miller of Portland in the ladies' singles final.

Mrs. Williamson, who defeated defending champion Claire Lovett of Vancouver earlier in the week, defeated the Portland miss 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, and prevented Patti from scoring the tournament's only "triple."

Miss Miller shared two other titles, as expected. She teamed up with Mrs. Lovett to defeat Mrs. Williamson and Sonia Berdan of Palo Alto, Calif., 6-2, 6-4 in the women's doubles.

Miss Miller and Dale Rohland of North Hollywood then captured the mixed doubles crown with a 6-2, 6-6, 6-3 triumph over Mrs. Lovett and Merwin Miller of Pasadena.

HOOGS SINGLES KING

The men's singles title went to top-seeded Bill Hoogs of Berkeley, Calif., a 19-year-old left-hander, who beat Dale Rohland of Los Angeles, 6-1, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2. Hoogs had not won a major tournament this year.

Miller and Rohland turned back Hoogs and Steve Chandler of Berkeley, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4, to claim the men's doubles title.

Other results:

Junior veterans' singles final—Ellis Williamson (Eureka) defeated Pete DesJardins (San Francisco) 6-3, 6-0.

Junior veterans' doubles final—Ross Hughes (Seattle) and Jack Churchill (Vancouver) defeated Marvin Miller (Seattle) and Brian Cavenagh (Vancouver) 6-2, 6-2.

Senior veterans' singles—Mel Dranga (Seattle) defeated Tom Todd (Seattle) 6-2, 6-2.

Senior veterans' doubles—Cari Brand (Victoria) and Cavenagh defeated Dranga and Churchill 6-2, 6-2.

Men's consolation—Paul Wells (Victoria) defeated Ray Aldiger (Victoria) 6-2, 6-4.

Women's consolation—Maureen Bray (Victoria) by default.

Mainland Bowlers Take Titles

VANCOUVER—Victoria entrants did not come in for any of the B.C. berths in the Canadian lawn bowling championships later this summer when results of the provincial championships were announced here yesterday.

Harvey Wheaton of South Vancouver won the singles title in the round-robin series. S. Gardner and R. L. Williams of North Vancouver won the doubles title and the Stanley Park team of W. Gavin, M. Nelson, J. Gavin and T. Moorecroft won the rinks title.

Rev. J. Jones, Victoria singles representative, wound up with a 4-0 won-lost record while the doubles combination of George Baker and George Aquith of Burnside had a 1-3 mark.

The Walter Fea rink of Burnside had a 1-3 record also.

Island Tourney

DUNCAN—The 72nd annual open Vancouver Island tennis championships will be held here Aug. 12-15 in conjunction with the Pacific Northwestern men's championships.

South Cowichan Tennis Club will act as host for the events.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Irish Pat Lowry, 148½, Toledo, Ohio, stopped Dillard Jackson, 152, Los Angeles (one).

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat... actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fat is broken down fat & smooth, easy-flowing mix.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat...

...for easier and more complete digestion.

In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat... unblocks it... for easier and more complete digestion.

O. C. CRICKET

ELECTRONIC FAREWELL TO FENCING ROMANCE

CHICAGO (NEA)—Farewell to the days when a fencing gallant dramatically cried "touche!" when he scored.

In the Pan-American Games in Chicago, Aug. 27-Sept. 7, it will be done electronically. The system operates on small voltage through wires leading from a retractable circuit breaker in the weapon point, down the blade and over the fencer's back to the scoring register.

When either sword point touches the metallic vest worn for foil and saber, or the metallic-cloth uniform worn in epee matches, where any part of the body is target, the circuit is broken. Lights light and bells ring.

The old way was so much more romantic.

The Little Men Did It Again And Chiso Three Ahead

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York beat Kansas City 7-5 while Boston Red Sox edged Detroit Tigers 5-4.

Over in the National League, the new firm of Willie McCovey and Willie Mays is keeping San Francisco Giants on top. They again provided the dynamite Sunday while Johnny Antonelli's 15th victory—a six-hitter—tamed Pittsburgh Pirates.

McCovey is hitting a sensational .500 with nine for 18 since the Giants moved him up from their Phoenix farm in time for Thursday's game. Sunday he hit his first major league home run—a 390-foot blast off Ronny Kline with Jim Davenport on in the fourth inning.

Mays put the Giants out front to stay with a seventh-inning double off loser Bob Porterfield. Once again Davenport scored.

BACK IN SECOND

Los Angeles Dodgers regained second place, a half-game behind the Giants, by shading Philadelphia Phillies 4-3, while Milwaukee Braves were splitting a pair with St. Louis.

Cincinnati Redlegs took a 2-0 decision over Chicago Cubs.

THE WHITE SOX WIN

Trailing 2-1 in the last of the ninth inning, Aparicio opened with a single. Fox bunted and catcher Steve Korchek threw the ball away. Aparicio scored and Fox dashed to third. Two intentional walks loaded the bases and Billy Goodman plunked fly ball single into left over a drawn in outfield for a 3-2 victory.

The White Sox won the second game 9-3. The Indians lost ground by dropping a 5-4 first-game decision to Baltimore in 10 innings. They won the second engagement 6-3.

Als Help Oak Bay Clinch Title

Oak Bay rules the Victoria and District Cricket Association today, but they can thank third-place Albions for lending a helping hand.

A comparatively easy victory Saturday and Albions' "assistance" draw with Incogs Sunday at Beacon Hill Park assured Oak Bay of top place in the league table. With only next week's games remaining on the schedule, second-place Incogs have no hope of overtaking Oak Bay.

Albions, sparked by Wally Tate's 31-run performance, were all out for 116. Incogs had replied with 105 for seven wickets when time ran out Sunday at Beacon Hill Park. Reg Wenman's 26 runs topped the Incogs' batsmen while teammate Robb Wilson, who took five wickets for 63 runs, was the standout among bowlers.

EASY TRIUMPH

Oak Bay defeated last-place Alcos by five wickets Saturday. Fine battoning by John Moss, with 58 runs, helped Alcos score 127. Oak Bay replied with 128 for five, with Bob Colquhoun scoring 44 runs.

In Saturday's other game, Ken Ackroyd's bowling sparked Cowichan to a 77-64 triumph over Five C's.

A scheduled Sunday match between Alcos and Kerrisdale was postponed.

City Peewees Mark Up Easy Boxja Triumph

A Victoria peewee lacrosse team, building up a 9-0 lead at one time, coasted to an easy 124 exhibition victory over Nanaimo all-stars Saturday.

Scoring star Don McNeill sparked Victoria with three goals in the game at Nanaimo.

In a regular bantam league fixture at Stevenson Park Saturday, five goals by Herjeet Bains gave Combines a 9-7 upset triumph over leading Punjab United.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

LAS VEGAS — Red Skelton is trying to forget the tragedies of life, and of death, this summer by working harder than he ever has before at his true role of a clown with a broken heart.

Red is still grieving for his son Richard who died of leukemia May 10, 1958. Red has come to the end of the road with his longtime friend and business manager, Bo Roos. It has not been a happy time.

Starring at the Hotel Riviera in this rowdy, raucous gambling town, Red is today a kind of American Pagliacci — he excites audiences to yelling, foot-stomping and table-pounding... after which he slumps in the wings, literally sobbing.

"I did a bad show," he said, a few nights ago, his face twisted like a crying child.

His body was still shaking like a riveting machine. He had just finished a pantomime sketch which he calls "Youth and Old Age Watching a Parade."

Then comes the parade pantomime.

Red Skelton and Richard

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by our readers and those who submit the question will receive a copy of the "Young Reader's Worthwhile Prize."

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pie-tured Encyclopedia to Bobby Read, aged 12, of Cushing, Ohio, for his question:

What Makes a Firefly Light Up?

Judging from Andy's mali, the firefly is the most fascinating of all the insects. This poses a problem, because a lot of his friends ask questions and he can only select one person to receive his favorite encyclopedia. He hopes that all the rest who asked about fireflies will understand this problem and try him again with more and still more questions. You may ask as many questions as there are fireflies in all the summer evenings.

The magic light of the firefly is made from air and certain chemicals within the insect's body. The light is manufactured in the area near the tail end of the body. Here the tissues are fatty and riddled with tiny tubes. These tubes connect with the insect's breathing tubes. Air enters some heat, thereby wasting energy and fuel.

It would be economical and very pleasant, especially in the summer, to light our home with cold light like that of the firefly. Maybe some day, our scientists will discover how the trick is done and learn how to imitate it.

Actually, the firefly is not classed as a fly at all. He has all the features of a beetle. His front wings are thickened covers, his back wings are dainty folding fans. He has short antennae and jaws for chewing. He has a life cycle of three stages — egg, larva, pupa and adult. In his early stages he is an insect eater but as an adult he may not eat at all. In North America we have 60 different kinds of firefly and in South America they have one two inches long.

is most satisfying by far

Get some today

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM

It was inspired by his son Richard bringing home a record of the "River Kwai" marching song and playing it for his parents, not many weeks before he died.

Red portrays a stooped, quivering-lipped, head-held-high old gentleman watching a parade beside a child. (Red occasionally holds his hand on the shoulder of the little boy who isn't there.) Finally the old gentleman, unable to resist the martial music... joins the parade himself... limping and hobbling... but in the big parade.

On that recent night when Red sobbed that he'd done a bad show... despite the tumult from the audience... his attractive wife, Georgia, was there to comfort him and hand him an asthma pill.

"He's been in the show business for 37 years," Georgia said later. "Who was I to tell him he hadn't done a bad show?" she added with a wife's pride: "But I wouldn't have him any different."

Then comes the parade pantomime.

On that recent night when Red sobbed that he'd done a bad show... despite the tumult from the audience... his attractive wife, Georgia, was there to comfort him and hand him an asthma pill.

Red's curtain speech is remarkable for supper clubs.

"Dear friends," he says. "I'm sorry our hour has passed so quickly. I feel down deep in my heart that we are all put here for a purpose, and that is to build, not destroy. And if at some later date something I have done here tonight can bring a smile to your face or a chuckle to your heart, then my purpose has been served for the Man upstairs. I want to wish you all abundant good health and happiness, and thank you for coming here tonight. Good night."

Then Red goes to his dressing room and they try to get him settled down.

Red comes out grinning broadly after a simple introduction, and says:

Richard, of course, is never mentioned in the act. Georgia says, however, that Red is constantly thinking of him, especially at show time.

When Red worries that he's not going to do a good show, she often encourages him by saying, "Yes, you are, because Richard is standing beside you." The recollection of Richard literally standing beside him on a TV show, and even telling a couple of jokes, shortly before he dies, is strengthening. Georgia is convinced.

"He speaks of gambling. I heard a man say to his wife, 'Gimme the money I told you not to gimme.' Patting his waistline, Red claims that an acquaintance told him: 'Your stomach looks like a beer keg.'

And that he replied: "That's what I been using it for."

William Head Parolee Charged With Theft

Pre-Release System Defended

A William Head prison inmate on pre-release parole spent two nights out in Victoria last week and the next night was arrested in a stolen car with a young man he met at a dance.

Norman McKenzie, 22, pleaded not guilty Saturday and was remanded to Friday for trial when he appeared today with Reginald Begin on a joint charge of taking a car without the owner's consent.

Begin pleaded guilty and was remanded to Friday for probation report and sentence.

Full responsibility for the prisoner's behavior was taken by Frank Breakwell, local executive secretary of the John Howard Society, in whose custody the prisoner was placed.

The pre-release program, similar to one operating at Haney Correctional Institute on the mainland, has been operating at William Head about two months. It is designed to orientate men about to be released with society.

Police said two young men were arrested at Yates and Douglas in a white sports car previously reported stolen from a View Street parking lot.

NO BLAME

Mr. Breakwell, who came to Victoria last November after working with the John Howard Society in Alberta, said he hoped the public would not blame the William Head institution for what had happened.

"It would be unfortunate because of the odd failure that the program should be frowned upon by the public. The whole responsibility is on me," Mr. Breakwell said.

The social worker referred to the new pre-release program as "a good treatment process."

Only the John Howard Society is entrusted with supervision of the men.

"Treatment consists of re-orientation of the man in his community. He meets his neighbors, for example, and we establish whether he will be accepted or rejected."

"At some point it is necessary to relieve the surveillance."

"This man I brought downtown for the first time on Tuesday. We walked around the stores, I took him to dinner, then back to William Head."

SIX DAYS LEFT

He had only six days left of a two-year sentence imposed in a Victoria court.

Wednesday he was brought to Mr. Breakwell by William Head officers at 9 a.m. He was taken around his old neighborhood and the national employment office.

Mr. Breakwell decided his man was in a sufficiently good mental state to be allowed to stay at Breakwell's home that night, and permission for him to sleep over was granted.

The car, stolen about 5:30 p.m. from Theis Lake, crashed into an oak tree on Seymour near Saanich Road at 6:15 p.m. Youngsters "scattered in all directions," Saanich police said.

Court was told three 17-year-old boys involved in the same incident will be dealt with in juvenile court.

Miss Kathleen Smith, 21, Oswego, told police Friday

Fire Victims' Probe Adjourned

CONGRATS (OF A SORT) FOR PREMIER

Victoria's continuing "stirrer-upper" of matters political, W. A. "Bill" Scott, Saturday sent "congratulations" to Premier Bennett on the government bond-burning gathering.

"Congratulations," he wired, "... for proving you are the most successful, clever politician ever privileged to come to B.C. to prove Barnum's quote 'there is one born every minute.'

"Ever respecting your ability, but not your policy ... W. A. Scott."

They were Lance, four, and Clayton, three, who had managed to get a short way towards safety from their burning bedroom, and Karine, 20 months, found dead in her crib.

The fire broke out sometime after Mr. Wardrobe, a construction worker, dozed off while watching a late television program. He awoke to find the house in flames, and was unable to reach his children.

Mrs. Wardrobe and their older daughter, Jade, six, were on their way to Cranbrook to the funeral of Mrs. Wardrobe's sister, at the time of the fire.

Three homes were burned to the ground in the fire, but Rod MacDonald, alone in his house, and Ron Sage, his wife, brother, and two children escaped. They lost most of their possessions, and insurance was not carried.

North Cedar Ratepayers' Association held an emergency meeting Saturday to plan ways of raising money for the members of the three families. Already the Canadian Legion, Red Cross, and Salvation Army have met their immediate needs.

Stolen Car Crashes Tree; Boys Caught

A 16-year-old boy found hiding in a telephone booth with face injuries and shock was arrested by city police. He is believed to be one of four occupants of a crashed stolen car Saturday evening.

Two others also were taken into custody and were to be dealt with by juvenile authorities at Colwood.

Twins Pleaded Guilty To Entering, Theft

Eighteen-year-old twins, Raymond and Mervin Deyo, 317 Beckley, pleaded guilty in city police court today to breaking, entering and theft of about $200 worth of goods from an Oswego Street apartment July 24.

Court was told three 17-year-old boys involved in the same incident will be dealt with in juvenile court.

Miss Kathleen Smith, 21, Oswego, told police Friday

someone had entered her new apartment in the past two weeks, while part of her property was stored there, and took two necklace-earring sets, a number of china and glass figurines, silverware, dishes and baby shoes.

Total value of the goods, some of which have been recovered, was between $150 and $200.

The Deyo boys were remanded for probation report and sentence Friday.

Volunteers Contain Fire

A bush fire driven by strong wind burned over 20 acres of Triangular Hill, in the Luxton-Happy Valley area, Sunday afternoon before being brought under control by 110 volunteer firefighters.

Ron Jones, Langford ranger for the B.C. Forest Service, said the alarm was received at 2:20 p.m., and that enough volunteers had responded to calls within an hour.

By 5 p.m. it was considered "pinned down," he said, and it was contained by midnight and put on a patrol basis. About 30 men remained on guard on the fire lines today, he said.

ON HILL

The fire, believed started by carelessness of children, burned scrub fir, grass and arbutus atop one of the several knobs on the hill.

Six tractors also were put to work cutting fire trails through the draws near the summit.

Idle loggers, Colwood firemen and residents of the Colwood-Metchosin-Happy Valley district responded to the call for the Pearce-Crescent subdivision.

The fire was one of four in the Langford area on the weekend, and "all were started by human carelessness," a Forest Service official said. Langford and Thurston Bay, also with four fires, were considered the danger spots of the Vancouver Forest District.

Threat of a forest closure in the district, imminent because of days of dry, hot weather, eased today with the approach of a small storm which is giving rain on the west and north coasts of the Island.

NO CLOSURE

"There is considerable improvement, and it doesn't look like there is a closure in the offing," a service spokesman said.

Here in Victoria, weatherman William Mackie predicted clouds and light rain for tonight, and cloudy skies with sunny periods Tuesday. Winds will be southwesterly at 20 miles an hour tonight, and westerly at 25 miles Tuesday, and temperatures will range between 52 and 68 degrees.

Burglars Hit Three Firms Over Weekend

Cash totalling $54.65 was stolen in a burglary at Fleet Esso Service, 297 Douglas, one of three businesses reported entered at the weekend.

A basement door was pried open at Saanich Lumber Yards Ltd., 3041 Douglas Street, where a caretaker heard the noise and called police early Sunday. He said it was the second burglary that night, and in both cases prowlers were scared off without taking anything.

Hobbs Food Market, Belton and Craigflower, was broken open by smashing a front door window with a wooden box, and again nothing was reported stolen.

Creditors believe the contractor used a fictitious name during his stay in the province and is now in Norway.

Pensioners Meet

Victoria Aged Pensioners, No. 3, will meet at the Legion Hall on Blanshard Street on Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Trio of Bridal Attendants Wear Pastel Tone Gowns

Mauve and yellow gowns were worn by bridal attendants at the wedding recently of Miss Diane Rosalie Graham and Bruce Douglas McIntyre. Matron of honor, Mrs. Douglas Mann, wore a dress of nylon chiffon in mauve tone and bridesmaids, Miss Helen Powers and Miss Sharon Smith, wore yellow dresses in same style. They carried bouquets of peach gladioli and wore matching handbags.

Marriage was conducted in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church with Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiating.

Bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Graham, Victoria, wore a gown of white lace in ballerina length. It was fashioned with a pearl studded rounded neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. From the deep V waistline, skirt swept gracefully. She had a single pearl droplet neckline and stud earrings.

Leaving on honeymoon to Portland, the bride wore a beige-toned sheath-style dress with matching jacket. Her hat and gloves were in rosy beige.

Couple will make their home in the city.

Three Triangle-Shape Pots All Cook on One Burner

By PENNY SAVER

Short on stove space?

Cooking a good meal can be pretty difficult if you've only two burners or elements. When camping, this shortage of heating surface is a real problem. If you want to prepare fresh vegetables separate pots are a must—because of radically different cooking times.

A set of three triangle pots is the way to cope with the situation. Three good sized pots fit together over one single element or burner. Now you can have beets cooking away in one pot, then add short cooking time vegetable just before beets are ready—so that all vegetables are at their succulent best at the same time. A detachable handle of non-heat-conducting, lightweight material slips onto whichever pot you wish.

Whole set is compact for easy packing for the camper. Price for three pots, handle and tray is $3.49.

Have you life jackets for everyone in your boat? In a campaign to reduce the number of summer drownings, government regulations now call for an approved life preserver for each person in a pleasure craft. It means added peace of mind if you know you are equipped to handle emergencies, on your summer outing. Comfortable models, to tuck away out of sight are vinyl sealed for extra durability, will fit adults or children. These are approved by the Department of Transport. Cost is $3.95 each.

A garden swing means hours and hours of fun for youngsters of almost any age. I've found ready-made kiddies' swings all set to be hung up. Seats are of sturdy wood, sanded on all edges. Ropes are thick, new and strong. If you have a tree branch or any suitable arch to hang it from, heavy duty screws are included for attaching ropes to tree; this is just the thing for your kiddies. It costs only 89 cents.

More of the wonderful big beach umbrellas are in town again—a whole new shipment. Of bamboo and parchment, they'll give you just the right amount of shade for a summer's sunning or for an outdoor lunch or tea. Price is $2.95.

Royal Yacht Makes Boy Go Overboard

HALIFAX (CP)—A teenage boy was pulled from Halifax harbor waters Friday after he became frightened and jumped overboard when his father's fishing boat met the Royal yacht Britannia unexpectedly in thick fog.

The Queen and Prince Philip were not aboard.

The two vessels passed within 50 feet of each other near the harbor mouth. The boy, Robey Hartfield, Jr., 14, of Port la Tour, N.S. struggled 10 minutes to keep afloat in the big yacht's wake.

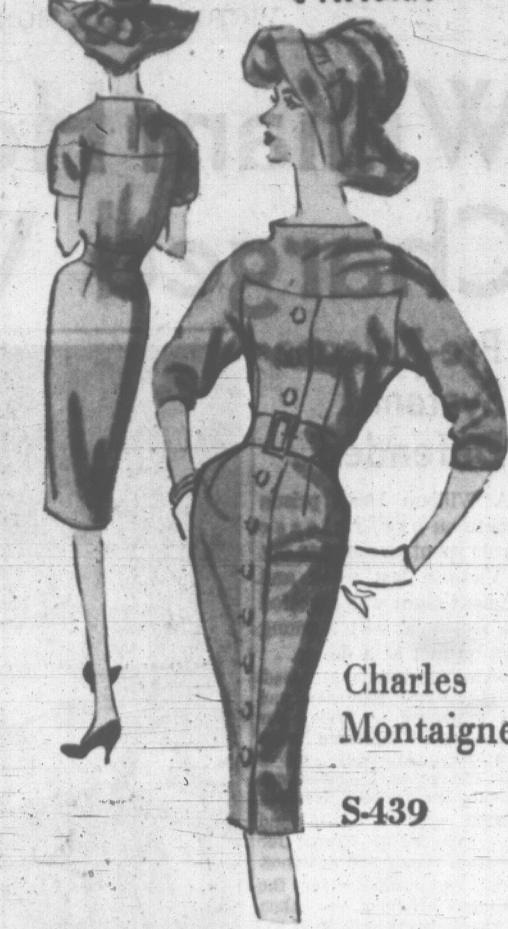

"It would have been all right if it hadn't been for that yacht," he said afterward.

"The water just kept coming up over my head."

The crew of the 80-foot fishing boat Ella Robey threw out empty barrels for the boy to cling to and then went to his rescue in a dory.

A spokesman for the Royal yacht said the Britannia's crew were unaware of the near-drowning.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Simmer Down, Man!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The other day I received a postcard from the lady who irons for me. She said her church was giving a stork shower for her daughter and she thought I'd like to know in case I wanted to send a present.

My husband is raving mad. He says if I let her "work me" for present he will be very disappointed in me.

She irons very well and I'd hate to lose her over a little gift. I could buy for $3.

You're a woman, Abby. Is my husband right or not?

NO NAME PLEASE.

DEAR NO: This is a new wrinkle! If it gives you the feeling of pleasure, generosity or security to send a gift, by all means send one. Men don't always understand these things. If your husband ever tried to iron a shirt he would not get so steamed up.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a boy the same age as I, which is 14. We have been going steady for two years. We have all planned to get married when we get out of school in four years. He kissed me last Saturday night for the first time. It was just a peck on the cheek. Don't you think that after waiting for two years I deserved at least a kiss on the lips?

DISAPPOINTED.

Her Favorite Sport—Gliding

REGINA (CP) — Mrs. Leo Smith of Ottawa enjoys talking about gliding, her favorite sport, almost as much as chatting about her two-month-old daughter Paula.

Mrs. Smith and her husband joined the Gatineau Gliding Club near Ottawa before they were married. They had stopped to talk with some of the pilots and soon found themselves members.

"If a woman can drive a car, she can learn to glide," says Mrs. Smith, who feels it is quite a safe sport. There is no possibility of engine failure and if a pilot is careful, accidents are unlikely.

Mrs. Smith says gliding is comparatively inexpensive. Training costs a mount to about $150. After that the only expense is a small charge for a tow plane and rental on the glider.

IN THE 'DOUGH'

NEW YORK (UPI) — The hand that rocks the cradle also rolls with dough.

This is the conclusion obvious from looking at the latest census of shareholders, published recently by the New York Stock Exchange. The census ought to bury once and for all the popular notion—source unknown—that women have no money sense.

The nation's female apparently have enough savvy to have a corner on the shareholders' market—they not only hold more shares than men, but have increased that lead since 1958, when the last exchange study was made.

NEW LINES FOR FALL AND WINTER

Models show wool coats from autumn and winter collection of Paris designer Amy Linker. At left, "Ritz" is a straight coat of brown, red and black-tartan wool trimmed with reddish fox fur. Grey flannel is material

A newcomer to Victoria's younger set is Miss Judith Wallbank of London, Eng. A graduate nurse of St. Batholomew's Hospital, Miss Wallbank is at present staying at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Michael Penn on Rainbow Road. She has a brother here, Mr. Michael Wallbank. Miss Wallbank plans to work and make her home in Victoria.

Hand-Painted Silk Dress Bride's 'Going-Away' Outfit

"Ave Maria" was played by Miss M. McKay during signing of the register.

H. S. Keiser, the bride's uncle, gave her in marriage. She wore a hoop-skirted gown styled with an empire silhouette and double-tiered effect on the sleeves. Bodice was overlaid with Chantilly lace embroidered with tiny sequins rising to a delicately scalloped neckline. Full skirt was highlighted with hand-clipped applique and demure bows. A tiara of seed pearls and iridescent sequins held her mist of illusion net veil in finger-tip length. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, white stocks and polished ivy.

Bridemaids, Mrs. W. Vogel and Mrs. J. Emslie chose gowns of white and pink appliqued nylon with taffeta cummerbunds. Both had white headpieces and carried pink roses, white stocks and ivy.

The bride's mother wore a lace sheath style gown in Dior blue, with matching jacket. Her corsage was pink roses, buds.

Best man was Patrick McLaughlin, and John Emslie, Lawrence St. Hilaire, Louis de Macedo usher.

More than 100 guests attended reception at the home of the bride's parents, where J. Kelly, the bride's uncle, proposed the toast.

Following their honeymoon, the couple will make their home in Victoria.

Strike Talks Resume

New negotiations were due to begin in Vancouver today in an effort to end the 10-day-old strike of B.C.'s fishermen. Officials of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union were to meet representatives of B.C. Fisheries Association. Association president James Sinclair said he will also meet spokesmen for the Native Brotherhood of B.C., representing Indian fishermen.

The strike idled 5,500 salmon net fishermen and 4,000 shoreworkers and tendermen.

SUMMIT MEET

Meanwhile, call by Sinclair Friday for a "summit" meeting between the heads of the three groups seems headed for failure.

The suggestion was based on what Sinclair termed a "friendly attitude" shown by UFAWU president Steve Stavens at the end of discussions last week.

But today Stavens issued a statement in which he said any bargaining would have to be done by the union's strike committee representing the membership, not by three men.

Stavens said Sinclair's call for a summit meeting of the gross insult to the intelligence three presidents only was "a of the membership."

BEHIND BACKS

"I can assure him," Stavens said, "the union membership did not elect me president of the UFAWU on the basis of going behind their backs and selling them out."

Earlier, Robert Clifton, president of the Brotherhood, said: "We should pay no attention to James Sinclair's barking."

"His suggestion (for a summit meeting of the three group heads) is an insult."

Meanwhile, the strike of 26,660 B.C. coast woodworkers became four weeks old today, with no sign of a break in the stand-off attitude of both sides.

It couldn't be called a politi-

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Give me, O heavenly Father, a clean mind and a pure heart, that I may walk worthily in Thy sight. Help me to make my life a blessing to others. Let me never become weary in well-doing. Guide me so to live that at the close of each day I may feel it was well spent for Thee; in Jesus' name. Amen.

Poles Go Overboard For Nixon

WARSAW (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon was enthusiastically acclaimed today with cries of "live 100 years" by at least 5,000 people at Poland's Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

One man broke through police lines to give the American visitor a bear hug that almost swept him off his feet. The crowd was small in comparison to the 250,000 Poles who greeted Nixon on his arrival Sunday. But it outdid even that great throng in vociferousness and enthusiasm.

After placing a wreath of pink roses on the memorial tomb and reviewing a guard of honor, Nixon suddenly moved toward the thousands of spectators applauding and cheering him. As the crowd gave cries of "Niec zycie," or "long life," one man broke through crying "Neixon."

CLASPED HIM

He bowed down and clasped Nixon around his middle, almost weeping. Police and Nixon's aides went quickly to his side and people in the crowd set up the chant "slobat," meaning "may you live 100 years."

Grinning, Nixon and his procession went off to the government offices for calls on Communist Party Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka, Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz and Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki.

The reception Sunday was the most rousing Nixon had received on all his foreign travels until then. For nearly 15 miles crowds cheered the delighted vice-president and showered him with flowers after he arrived by plane from Moscow.

Mrs. Nixon shared the affection, too. Workers in blue overalls bowed and kissed her hands when she visited a nursery school.

However, the press and radio of nations in the Soviet bloc blacked out reports of the enthusiastic Polish welcome.

PENHOLD, Alta. (CP) —

Farm officials said today damages might reach $1,000,000 as the result of a fierce hailstorm which swept through this central Alberta wheat-growing area Sunday.

Mrs. Nixon shared the affection, too. Workers in blue overalls bowed and kissed her hands when she visited a nursery school.

However, the press and radio of nations in the Soviet bloc blacked out reports of the enthusiastic Polish welcome.

Britons Fretting Over Tired Queen

(See page 23)
(Times News Services)

LONDON — British news papers fretted today over the burden placed on the Queen during her Canadian tour and put forth proposals to make future Commonwealth visits less strenuous.

The Daily Herald's front page was dominated by a huge picture of a tired-looking Queen taken as she returned home Sunday.

"Never again," declared a streamer headline over the picture and a front-page editorial which asserted:

"Nobody — Queen or commonwealth — should have to endure such an ordeal."

"Such whistle-stop tours must never be allowed again," the paper said, adding that during the 45-day trip she had shaken 8,000 hands, visited 136 countries, made 50 speeches and two television broadcasts.

"If she is to play her modern role as Queen of the Commonwealth, she should spend at least three months in each country she visits. That will give her time to lead a more normal normal life abroad."

Another London newspaper,

the News Chronicle, reported today that the Queen will undergo a medical examination as the result of her 35-day, 15,000-mile Canadian tour.

The paper said Sir John

Weit, one of the Queen's personal physicians, cancelled a vacation in Scotland to see her today.

The examination will determine whether the Queen takes a rest or goes ahead with her full schedule of public appearances in the next few weeks.

'OVERSTRAINED'

All the London papers agreed the Queen looked tired

when she arrived at London

Airport Sunday morning with

Prince Philip after their Atlantic crossing aboard a BOAC

Comet.

IT TAKES STING OUT

OF FAILURE AT GENEVA

GENEVA (AP) — The prospect of the visit to the United States by Soviet Premier Khrushchev caused Allied fears today of a dangerous new flare-up in the Berlin crisis after the collapse of the foreign ministers conference here.

U.S. British and French officials all conceded that the conference almost certainly will end in disagreement Wednesday.

The only reservation they make is that some unforeseen and radical change of position by Russia could alter the outcome even on the final day.

Informants said the West will not change its position.

Soviet Leader Arrives Early 'n September

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev will exchange visits this fall — thus taking into a new phase of diplomacy the East-West differences on which world peace hangs.

Khrushchev's visit — the first by a Russian Communist premier — will be in September. Eisenhower will go to Moscow later in the year. Exact dates for the visits have not been fixed.

In Warsaw, Vice-President Nixon said he understood Khrushchev would go to the United States between Sept. 1 and 15.

Almost identical announcements of the plans were made here and in Moscow — differences apparently only those of translation. Winding up on the peace theme, the final paragraph in the text released by Moscow said:

"Both governments express the hope that the forthcoming visits will promote the establishment of better understanding between the United States and the U.S.S.R. and will further the cause of peace."

Eisenhower called a special press conference to make the announcement here. Exchanges at this meeting with reporters developed also:

1. Before meeting with Khrushchev here, Eisenhower will go to Europe later this month to confer with Prime Minister Macmillan, President de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer.

2. Exchanges on the question of the Khrushchev-Eisenhower visits have been going on for some time and were initiated well before Vice-President Nixon went to Russia.

Eisenhower said he told Nixon on the day the vice-president left for Russia that negotiations in written form were in progress for an exchange of visits between Khrushchev and himself.

Eisenhower said he told Nixon not to open the subject of the exchange visits but that there was no prohibition in him discussing the matter once the subject was opened.

In telling of his plans to go to Europe to confer with the heads of state of Great Britain, France and West Germany, Eisenhower said co-ordination between the Allied powers has been good.

Nixon on the day the vice-president left for Russia that negotiations in written form were in progress for an exchange of visits between Khrushchev and himself.

But, with the prospective collapse of the Geneva foreign ministers' conference, it was obvious that there was opening up a new, higher level of exchanges which the Western allies hope may bring some alteration in Soviet positions on the great issues between East and West.

JOHN D. MAY ASK MR. K TO CANADA

SASKATOON (CP) — The possibility of inviting Premier Khrushchev to Canada next month will be considered by the Canadian government, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

Mr. Diefenbaker said no consideration has been given to extending an invitation to Mr. Khrushchev to visit Ottawa or other parts of Canada during his trip to the U.S.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he will look for beneficial results from the Eisenhower-Khrushchev visits. "I have always been a strong adherent to this type of exchange," he said.

A decision on whether to offer the invitation will be made when he discusses the idea with his cabinet on his return to Ottawa within several days.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he will look for beneficial results from the Eisenhower-Khrushchev visits. "I have always been a strong adherent to this type of exchange," he said.

The Western German government "warmly welcomed" the meetings and believes the talks will bring the necessary clarification as to whether the prerequisites for an East-West summit conference can be arranged," an official spokesman said in Bonn.

"I found my discussions with Mr. Khrushchev earlier this year most useful and I feel certain that these visits will lead, when the summit comes, to a fruitful and constructive meeting

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Afternoon and evening sailings of Washington State Ferries' MV Kankala on the Victoria-Port Angeles run Saturday were cancelled out due to high winds and rough water. About 60 foot passengers and 41 cars were forced to wait until Sunday sailings to reach Port Angeles. It was the second time this season the ferry has skipped sailings due to rough seas.

Some 400 Sourdoughs from B.C. Alberta, Washington, Oregon and some eastern U.S. cities are coming to Victoria Aug. 26 for a three-day commemoration of the Klondike Gold Rush in the Yukon of 1896. About 20 of the sourdoughs will be men and women who took part in the original gold rush.

Former
Gordon Head
CO Dies Here

Lieut.-Col. Theodore Benjamin Monk, well-known Victoria soldier and realtor, died suddenly at his home, 1537 Yale Street, Sunday.

Best remembered as first commandant of Gordon Head Camp in the Second World War, he also was an active real estate dealer before and after the First World War, and was known for his active interest and campaign for a Canadian national flag.

He was born in Winnipeg, and turned to law when defective eyesight barred him from the permanent army, then left that as "tedious." He followed his next employer to Victoria and started work in the city engineer's department.

REAL ESTATE

His real estate career started with Pemberton & Sons, but he soon founded his own firm with Roger Monteith, which was responsible for forming several subdivisions. He also was interested in developing Clo-ose as a resort area, but a change in government planning halted the scheme.

In the first war he started service with the 5th B.C. Coast Regiment, but went to France with the 54th Battalion, and fought at Vimy Ridge.

Working between wars as a realtor, he became commanding officer of the 5th Regiment. After his Gordon Head post he became a liaison officer to the U.S. Army.

Surviving are the widow, Julia, at home; two sons, David R., Victoria, and George B., New York; two daughters, Mrs. Cecil Stanley, Toronto; and Mrs. Jan Zach, Eugene, Ore., and a sister, Ruth, and brother, Henry, in Winnipeg.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Haywards.

Pensioners Meet

Victoria Aged Pensioners, No. 3, will meet at the Legion Hall on Blanshard Street on Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Cars were detained off Douglas Street between Pembroke and Herald this morning as city crews applied a flush coat of asphalt to the road. The strip was to be back to normal use on Tuesday.

Emerson P. Handspiker, Work Point Barracks, played "suicide" with a railway level crossing and was fine $20 in city police court today.

Handspiker pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to stop his car on seeing a red warning signal at Esquimalt Road crossing. Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady quoted the driver as saying at the time:

"I looked up the tracks, saw the train and thought I could make it."

He did.

"Why anyone would want to joust with a railway train . . . a suicidal thing to do," Magistrate William Ostler remarked.

Andrew and Kay Walker, of Apartment 11, 1702 Quadra, were their rescue from a smoke-filled room to neighbors who called police and firemen to the building at 12:25 a.m. Sunday.

Other occupants of the Ahoy Apartments, Quadra at Belmont, found smoke coming from the Walker suite and when they knocked got no response.

Firemen broke open the door to find a smouldering Chesterfield.

Police said the Walkers refused medical attention.

Volunteers Contain Fire

A bush fire driven by strong wind burned over 20 acres of Triangle Hill, in the Luxton-Happy Valley area, Sunday afternoon before being brought under control by 110 volunteer firefighters.

Ron Jones, Langford ranger for the B.C. Forest Service, said the alarm was received at 2:20 p.m. and that enough volunteers had responded to calls within an hour.

By 5 p.m. it was considered "pinned down," he said, and it was contained by midnight and put on a patrol basis. About 30 men remained on guard on the fire lines today, he said.

ON HILL

The fire, believed started by carelessness of children, burned scrub fir, grass and arbutus atop one of the several knobs on the hill.

Six tractors also were put to work cutting fire trails through the draws near the summit.

Idle loggers, Colwood firemen and residents of the Colwood-Metchosin-Happy Valley-district responded to the call for help, Mr. Jones said.

The fire was one of four in the Langford area on the weekend, and "all were started by human carelessness," a Forest Service official said. Langford and Thurston Bay, also with four fires, were considered the danger spots of the Vancouver Forest District.

Threat of a forest closure in the district, imminent because of days-of hot, dry weather, eased today with the approach of a small storm which is giving rain on the west and north coasts of the Island.

NO CLOSURE

"There is considerable improvement, and it doesn't look like there is a closure in the offing," a service spokesman said.

Here in Victoria, weatherman William MacKie predicted clouds and light rain for tonight, and cloudy skies with sunny periods Tuesday. Winds will be southwesterly at 20 miles an hour tonight, and westerly at 25 miles Tuesday, and temperatures will range between 52 and 68 degrees.

Burglars Hit Three Firms Over Weekend

Cash totalling $54.65 was stolen in a burglary at Fleet Esso Service, 927 Douglas, one of three businesses reported entered at the weekend.

A basement door was pried open at Saanich Lumber Yards Ltd., 3041 Douglas Street, where a caretaker heard the noise and called police early Sunday. He said it was the second burglary that night, and in both cases prowlers were scared off without taking anything.

Hobbs Food Market, Belton and Craigflower, was broken open by smashing a front door window with a wooden box, and again nothing was reported stolen.

Creditors believe the contractor used a fictitious name during his stay in the province and is now in Norway.

William Head Parolee Charged With Theft

Pre-Release System Defended

William Head, prison inmate on pre-release parole spent two nights out in Victoria last week and the next night was arrested in a stolen car with a young man he met at a dance.

Norman McKenzie, 22, pleaded not guilty Saturday and was remanded to Friday for trial when he appeared today with Reginald Begin on a joint charge of taking a car without the owner's consent.

Begin pleaded guilty and was remanded to Friday for probation report and sentence.

Full responsibility for the prisoner's behavior was taken by Frank Breakwell, local executive secretary of the John Howard Society, in whose custody the prisoner was placed.

The pre-release program, similar to one operating at Haney Correctional Institute on the mainland, has been operating at William Head about two months. It is designed to orientate men about to be released with society.

Police said two young men were arrested at Yates and Douglas in white a white sports car previously reported stolen from a View Street parking lot.

NO BLAME

Mr. Breakwell, who came to Victoria last November after working with the John Howard Society in Alberta, said he hoped the public would not blame the William Head institution for what had happened.

"It would be unfortunate because of the odd failure that the program should be frowned upon by the public. The whole responsibility is on me," Mr. Breakwell said.

The social worker referred to the new pre-release program as "a good treatment process."

Only the John Howard Society is entrusted with supervision of the men.

"Treatment consists of re-orientation of the man in his community. He meets his neighbors, for example, and we establish whether he will be accepted or rejected."

Victoria mortgagors, subcontractors, building suppliers and labor are faced with heavy financial losses as the result of the liquidation. They were left unpaid for their materials and labor.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane has already issued an order for the sale by auction of five lots. Two of the lots contain completed homes, while a third was in the process of being constructed.

CLAIM FILED

The judicial sale was ordered after George P. M. Payne, a creditor, filed a claim against the lots.

They will be sold by Sheriff Eric Wilkinson on Friday at 11 a.m.

Other claims against the subdivisions are expected to be filed in Supreme Court in the near future.

One of the main claimants will be James Filmer who sold the subdivision to Aarsand and only received partial payment for the lots.

Liquidation proceedings began after RCMP spent weeks searching for Aarsand.

The Income Tax Department also sought his whereabouts for non-payment of taxes.

A car owned by Aarsand was finally found at the Vancouver airport but a check of passenger lists showed that no person by the name of Aarsand had left the country by plane.

Creditors believe the contractor used a fictitious name during his stay in the province and is now in Norway.

SIX DAYS LEFT

He had only six days left of a two-year sentence imposed in a Victoria court.

On Wednesday he was brought in to Mr. Breakwell by William Head officers at 9 a.m. He was taken around his old neighborhood and the national employment office.

Mr. Breakwell decided his man was in a sufficiently good mental state to be allowed to stay at Breakwell's home that night, and permission for him to sleep out was granted.

Thursday the man did the same sort of things and on Friday he did a number of jobs around the house.

"I told him he could go to a show or a dance by himself that night, and he went to a dance. He met this other young fellow at the dance and, well, there was this trouble."

The car, owned by M. M. Gilchrist, 3122 Alder, sustained about $400 damage.

Two of the youths were given treatment at Jubilee Hospital and discharged to police.

Fire Victims' Probe Adjourned

Victoria's continuing "shir-upper" of matters political, W. A. "Bill" Scott, Saturday sent "congratulations" to Premier Bennett on the government bond-burning gathering.

"Congratulations," he wired "for proving you are the most successful, clever politician ever privileged to come to B.C. to prove Barnum's quote 'there is one born every minute.'

"At some point it is necessary to relieve the surveillance."

"Ever respecting your ability, but not your policy . . .

Funeral services for the victims, children of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wardrobe, will be held Tuesday, and interment will be at Cedar Valley Memorial Gardens.

Two homes were burned to the ground in the fire, but Rod MacDonald, alone in his house, and Ron Sage, his wife, brother, and two children escaped. They lost most of their possessions, and insurance was not carried.

North Cedar Ratepayers' Association held an emergency meeting Saturday to plan a way of raising money for the members of the three families. Already the Canadian Legion, Red Cross, and Salvation Army have met their immediate needs.

Twins Pleaded Guilty To Entering, Theft

Eighteen-year-old twins, Raymond and Mervin Deyotte, 317 Beckley, pleaded guilty in city police court today to breaking, entering and theft of about $200 worth of goods from an Oswego Street apartment July 24.

Court was told three 17-year-old boys involved in the same incident will be dealt with in Juvenile court.

Miss Kathleen Smith, 214 Oswego, told police Friday

she was unable to reach her children.

Mrs. Wardrobe and their older daughter, Jade, six, were on their way to Cranbrook to the funeral of Mrs. Wardrobe's sister, at the time of the fire.

Fishery Strike
Talks Resuming

New negotiations were due to begin in Vancouver today in an effort to end the 10-day-old strike of B.C. fishermen.

Officials of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union were to meet representatives of B.C. Fisheries Association. Association president James Sinclair said he will also meet spokesmen for the Native Brotherhood of B.C., representing Indian fishermen.

The strike idled 5,500 salmon net fishermen and 4,000 shoreworkers and tendermen.

SUMMIT MEET

Meanwhile, call by Sinclair Friday for a "summit" meeting between the heads of the three groups seems headed for failure.

The suggestion was based on what Sinclair termed a "friendly attitude" shown by UFAWU president Steve Stavens at the end of discussions last week.

But today Stavens issued a statement in which he said any bargaining would have to be done by the union's strike committee representing the membership, not by three men.

Stavens said Sinclair's call for a summit meeting of the three presidents only was a gross insult to the intelligence of the membership.

BEHIND BACKS

"I can assure him," Stavens said, "the union membership did not elect me president of the UFAWU on the basis of going behind their backs and selling them out."

Earlier, Robert Clifton, president of the Brotherhood, said "We should pay no attention to James Sinclair's barking."

His suggestion (for a summit meeting of the three group heads) is an insult."

Meanwhile, the strike of 26,600 B.C. coast woodworkers became four weeks old today, with no sign of a break in the stand-off attitude of both sides.

HOME AGAIN

Britons Fretting
Over Tired Queen

(See page 23)

(Times News Services) LONDON — British news papers fretted today over the burden placed on the Queen during her Canadian tour and put forth proposals to make future Commonwealth visits less strenuous.

The Daily Herald's front page was dominated by a huge picture of a tired-looking Queen taken as she returned home Sunday.

"Never again," declared a streamer headline over the picture and a front-page editorial which asserted:

"Nobody — Queen or commoner — should have to endure such an ordeal."

"Such whistle-stop tours must never be allowed again," the paper said, adding that during the 45-day trip she had shaken 8,000 hands, visited 136 places, made 50 speeches and two television broadcasts.

"If she is to play her modern role as Queen of the Commonwealth, she should spend at least three months in each country she visits." That will give her time to lead a more normal life abroad."

Another London newspaper, the News Chronicle, reported today that the Queen will undergo a medical examination as the result of her 45-day, 15,000-mile Canadian tour.

The paper said Sir John Weir, one of the Queen's personal physicians, cancelled a vacation in Scotland to see her today.

The examination will determine whether the Queen takes a rest or goes ahead with her full schedule of public appearances in the next few weeks.

OVERSTRAINED

All the London papers agreed the Queen looked tired when she arrived at London Airport Sunday morning with Prince Philip after their Atlantic crossing aboard a BOAC Comet.

Poles Go
Overboard
For Nixon

WARSAW (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon was enthusiastically acclaimed today with cries of "live 100 years" by at least 5,000 people at Poland's Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

One man broke through police lines to give the American visitor a bear hug that almost swept him off his feet.

The crowd was small in comparison to the 250,000 Poles who greeted Nixon on his arrival Sunday. But it did even that great throng in vociferousness and enthusiasm.

After placing a wreath of pink roses on the memorial tomb and reviewing a guard of honor, Nixon suddenly moved toward the thousands of spectators applauding and cheering him. As the crowd gave cries of "Niez zycie," or "long life," one man broke through crying "Nezon."

CLASPED HIM

He bore down and clasped Nixon around his middle, almost weeping. Police and Nixon's aides went quickly to his side and people in the crowd set up the chant "stolat," meaning "may you live 100 years."

Grinning, Nixon and his procession went off to the government offices for calls on Communist Party Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka, Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz and Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki.

The reception Sunday was the most rousing Nixon had received on all his foreign travels until then. For nearly 15 miles crowds cheered the delighted vice-president and showered him with flowers after he arrived by plane from Moscow.

His suggestion (for a summit meeting of the three group heads) is an insult."

Meanwhile, the strike of 26,600 B.C. coast woodworkers became four weeks old today, with no sign of a break in the stand-off attitude of both sides.

However, the press and radio of nations in the Soviet bloc blacked out reports of the enthusiastic Polish welcome.

KELOWNA — Some called it a birthday party, some called it a propaganda party.

Either way, the Social Credit rally here Saturday was good clean fun, enjoyed by Social Credit supporters, Okanagan residents, and a seasonal horde of tourists from all over.

Day-long festivities, including fun and games for kiddies and cabinet ministers alike, ended with the much publicized "bond fire" on a raft in Lake Okanagan.

Premier Bennett, the central figure in the celebrations, states the bonfire marks the end of B.C.'s direct debt, a claim which can start an argument in certain circles.

But there was no arguing with the air of fiesta which took over the Premier's home town for the day. The program got off to a slow start.

In fact, at noon it appeared the party wasn't going to get off the ground.

But it gained momentum quickly. By the time the "bond-burning" got underway, an estimated 20,000 people jammed the lakeside.

It couldn't be called a picnic.

U.S., British and French officials all conceded that the

The only reservation they make is that some unforeseen and radical change of position by Russia could alter the outcome even on the final day.
